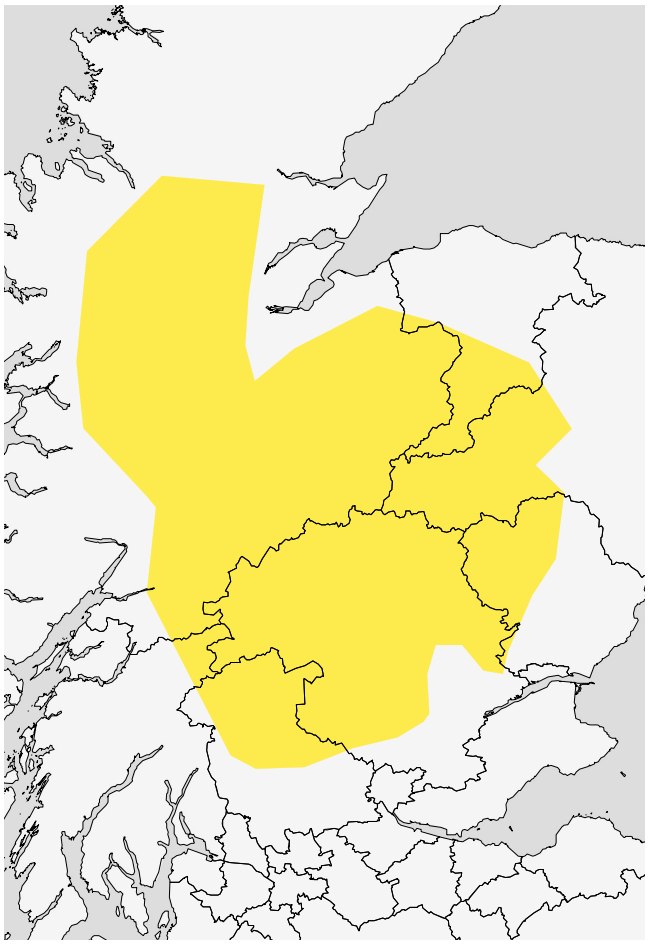
Yellow warning
Snow & Ice

Between
23:00 Fri 17 Feb 2023 and
09:00 Sat 18 Feb 2023



Ice and snow may lead to some travel disruption across parts of Scotland on Saturday morning, mostly on high level routes.

What to expect

- Some higher level roads and railways are likely to be affected, leading to longer journeys by car, bus and train
- Icy patches are possible on some untreated roads, pavements and cycle paths
- Some injuries from slips and falls on icy surfaces

Further details

An area of rain and snow will move east during the early hours of Saturday. Snow is expected to fall on routes above 300 metres giving accumulations of 2 to 5 cm, perhaps with 5 to 10 cm on the highest routes. Rain may turn to snow briefly down to 150 metres, leading to some slight accumulations mainly on grassy surfaces.

As drier weather extends from the west later in the night some icy patches are likely on untreated surfaces, more especially in the north and west of the warning area.

Medium likelihood of low impacts
